

MOVE OVER.
IT'S THE LAW.

SLOW DOWN. MOVE OVER.

Missouri law helps provide a safer workplace for emergency personnel working on the roadways. When drivers see emergency vehicles and transportation workers performing their official duties, they are required to change lanes or reduce their speed. Specifically, Missouri's Move Over law (Section 304.022 RSMo) requires drivers to approach cautiously when an emergency vehicle displaying red or red and blue lights or a stationary vehicle displaying lighted amber or amber and white lights. Motorists must change lanes away from the emergency vehicle if they are on a multi-lane highway and can SAFELY do so. If drivers can't change lanes safely, or they are on a two-lane highway, they must slow down while maintaining a safe speed so as not to impede other traffic. A violation can result in fines and/or imprisonment.
